

Slagle v. A&E Networks, LLC; Lifetime Movie Network

Posted on October 11, 2014

The Lovell Firm launches defamation lawsuit against Lifetime Network on behalf of the sole survivor's portrayal in the movie "Happy Face Killer." The Lovell Firm, and co-counsel Bryan Vereschagin, represent Daun Slagle, the sole survivor of an attack by the infamous serial killer, Keith Hunter Jespersen, in her claims against Lifetime for her depiction in the movie "The Happy Face Killer." The lawsuit alleges that "despite having been a courageous victim and survivor of an attempted murder, plaintiff was humiliated and embarrassed by defendants when she was depicted in the "Happy Face Killer" movie as a prostitute, a person who voluntarily orally copulated a serial killer, a mother who committed sex acts for pay in front of her infant child, an unfit mother and person who sought to extort money by threatening to file a false criminal rape complaint against Jespersen...This portrayal is false, egregious and disgusting."

Posted on October 11, 2014

Additional articles:

- A & E Television Networks And Lifetime Movie Network Sued For Defamation By Daun Slagle For Falsely Portraying Her As A Prostitute In The Lifetime Original Movie "Happy Face Killer" About Serial Killer Keith Jespersen
- Survivor who escaped 'Happy Face Killer' sues Lifetime for depicting her as a prostitute.